Chemistry and Communication Term Definitions

Defining Trust
Trust is built when teammates are vulnerable and reliable.

Two components:
Vulnerability: the willingness to admit one's mistakes, blind spots, ignorance, etc., and the willingness to receive candid feedback without taking it personally.

Reliability: doing what one agrees to do (basically, following through).

Meeting Descriptions
The Executive Team meets to establish and bring alignment around our mission, vision, values, strategies and structure.

The Management Team meets to hear and bring perspective on key organizational decisions and build team trust.

The Staff Meets to receive ministry vision, celebrate, have fun and worship together.